Roof Over Your Head Day

This is a day to stop and appreciate what we have, starting with one of the most important things: a roof over our heads. There are as many as 100 million people without shelter around the world, and this may be the reason this day was created. Many states have developed creative solutions to address this issue and continue to implement strategies to provide shelter for everyone in America. It's important to remember that not everyone is as fortunate, so take time to be thankful not only for having a place to live but for all the blessings in your life.

"If you feed your mind as often as you feed your stomach, then you'll never have to worry about feeding your stomach or a roof over your head or clothes on your back."
Albert Einstein

DID YOU KNOW?

Brain-to-Voice Neural Implants

Brain-computer interfaces (BCIs) can now translate internal motor intentions directly into spoken sentences in real time. Micro-electrode arrays implanted along the sensorimotor cortex detect the minute electrical impulses a person attempts to send to their vocal tract, tongue, and lips. Machine-learning decoders then instantly reconstruct these signals into natural-sounding synthetic speech at conversational speeds exceeding 60 words per minute.
