National No Dirty Dishes Day

If you are the type of person who absolutely cannot stand seeing dishes in the sink, this is your day! May 18th is National No Dirty Dishes Day. While the name suggests just taking a break from the dishes, there may be a bit more to it. Besides being unsightly and more work, dirty dishes can be a breeding ground for germs, which people dislike even more than dirty dishes. Dirty dishes may also affect how you feel. Seeing a kitchen go from messy to nice and clean can often give someone a boost. Even doing the dishes themselves can be therapeutic and relieve tension.

The simple motion of washing the dishes and the feeling of the warm water can help lower stress levels. Who knew doing the dishes could mean a clean kitchen and a better you?
