National Decency Day

Add more kindness to your day on May 14th, National Decency Day! Established in the early 2000s, National Decency Day is intended to promote civility, respect, and kindness in everyday life, and remind us that no matter who we are or where we come from, we can all be good citizens and treat each other with dignity. Holding a door, giving a compliment, chatting over a meal, sharing music, helping a neighbor, or taking part in a donation drive to help a charity or non-profit are all easy and productive ways to help.

With an increase in kindness and tolerance, communities become more open and accepting of diverse cultures, religions, and lifestyles, which can lead to increased collaboration and creativity.

In 2013, author Dan Brown's fourth novel, "Inferno," was released and instantly became a bestseller. His breakthrough came in 2003 with the publication of "The Da Vinci Code." Brown's novels have been adapted into successful films.

Portraits of George Washington usually show him as an older man with white powdered hair, which was the fashion in the 18th century. However, when he was younger, Washington had reddish-brown hair, as we know from paintings of him at the time. Mount Vernon, George Washington's estate, even has a lock of his hair that displays an amber hue.
