National Silver Star Service Banner Day

Silver Star Service Banner Day is celebrated on May 1st in recognition of the sacrifices American service members have made for our country. Across all branches of the U.S. military, the Silver Star Medal is one of the highest honors a soldier can receive as recognition for gallant action during combat and as a result of action against an enemy of the U.S. during conflict over a short period, normally one or two days.

Although founded in 2004 by the Silver Star Families of America (SSFOA) organization, the day was made official in 2010.

Today in History

In 1718, Father Antonio de San Buenaventura Y Olivares performed the rites and rituals for the establishment of Mission San Antonio de Valero. It's now known as the Alamo and was the 1st of several settlements in what is now San Antonio, Texas.

DID YOU KNOW?

Picasso and the “Dark Side of the Moon”

Pablo Picasso was still alive when "The Dark Side of the Moon" was released by Pink Floyd. Picasso, one of the most influential artists of the 20th century lived a full life until he passed away in 1973. This was, coincidentally, the same year that one of the most groundbreaking and progressive albums ever with an estimated 45 million copies sold. It is Pink Floyd's most successful album and one of the best-selling worldwide.
