World Television Day

Who doesn't love watching television? OK, so there may be a few people here and there who don't, but most people enjoy sitting down with a drink and/or snack and watching a good TV show or movie. The United Nations created World Television Day in 1996 to recognize television as having an increased impact on decision-making as well as being an ambassador for the entertainment industry. It serves as a symbol of communication and globalization that educates, informs, entertains, and influences our decisions and opinions. The internet has connected us in ways we didn't expect and perhaps could not have imagined, but on World Television Day we remember that television was there first and paved the way for what was to come. So, if you're enjoying television today, you can thank the UN for creating this holiday and Philo Taylor Farnsworth for inventing the television in 1927!

Today in History

In 1968, “I’m Gonna Make You Love Me” was released by the Supremes and the Temptations. That same year, The Supremes were renamed “Diana Ross and The Supremes.” Ross received many awards, as well as the Presidential Medal of Freedom by President Barack Obama.

Find that Man a Parking Spot

Daniel Craig, who played James Bond in five installments of the film series, was offered a lifetime deal by Aston Martin in 2012, allowing him to drive any model he wanted at any time. He can even test-drive them on a racetrack before choosing one. When asked about the deal, Craig stated that he lives in London and that it doesn't make sense to drive an Aston Martin there as he has nowhere to park it.
