National Spouse's Day

National Spouses Day on January 26th each year celebrates the bond between two people and sets aside time for couples to show each other gratitude. Dedicated to recognizing spouses everywhere, the observance reminds us to take time for our mate. From being thankful for the fulfillment and security of a long-term relationship to the boost of morale and well-being provided by spouses, there are many reasons to celebrate. This day is a time to either show your spouse how much you appreciate them and all they do for you, or to look back and reflect on fond memories. If your spouse is still by your side, give them a heartfelt thank you or compliment and spend some time together. If your spouse is no longer by your side, take time to look through photos, share stories and memories of them, or write a poem in their honor.

Today in History

In 2005, Condoleezza Rice became the first African American woman to be sworn in as U.S. Secretary of State. From 2001 to 2005, she was the first female African American National Security Advisor to hold that post. In 1974, Rice wanted to be a concert pianist when she was 15.

DID YOU KNOW?

Antiseptic Meets All-Purpose Cleaner

Listerine was initially developed as a surgical antiseptic but was later marketed as a floor cleaner and a cure for other illnesses to expand its sales. In the 1920s, the company sought to reach a broader audience and rebranded Listerine as a remedy for "chronic halitosis," commonly known as bad breath. This strategy proved to be a huge success, leading to a significant increase in revenue, surpassing $8 million within seven years.

Trivia Answer: C

Because Bogart was nearly two inches shorter than Bergman, director Michael Curtiz had Bogie stand on blocks or sit on cushions to make him seem taller.
