National Pet Day

Today is a day dedicated to celebrating pets, including those that are unadopted and may not always receive the love and attention they deserve. While we love our pets every day, we can also help orphaned pets by donating toys, food supplies, and other essentials to local shelters. If you have been considering adopting a new furry friend, today would be a great day to do so and give them a forever home.

It's important to double-check your pet's collar to ensure that their tags are secure and their information is current. Additionally, you can show your pet some extra love today by giving them a warm bath and a good rubdown.

Today in History

DID YOU KNOW? Eggs "Breathe" Through Their Shells

Eggshells are porous, allowing gases to pass through. Carbon dioxide and moisture leave the shell, replaced by atmospheric gases, including oxygen, crucial for the embryo's respiration inside a fertilized egg. Store eggs in their carton to maintain quality, preventing moisture loss and protecting against odors and contaminants.
