Ride the Wind Day

This late summer holiday is a blend of adventure and peace. Ride the Wind Day is a carefree day to soar above the earth or sail the day away. We have proven time and time again that we can achieve anything we set our minds to with limitless achievements. There's no denying that flying is one of the most euphoric feelings to have. We envy the birds every day for effortlessly having that advantage, and human-powered aircraft allowed us to experience that feeling.

The concept of human-powered flight began in 1904 with the invention of a bicycle plane. However, it wasn't until November 9, 1961, that the first successful take-off and landing of a man-powered aircraft occurred. In 1977, the Gossamer Condor 2 won the Kremer Prize for flying a figure-of-eight course around two markers. This achievement led to the establishment of National Ride The Wind Day.

Today in History
