National Bow Tie Day

The bow tie isn't for everyone, but some people just look right in one. Bow ties go in and out of style and come in many flavors. What's dapper for one is humorous for another, and scholarly for someone else. The bow tie dates back to Croatians who would tie a scarf around their necks to hold their shirts closed. This fashion statement found favor in France and spread worldwide.

Both men and women can wear bow ties, but the most famous wearers include James Bond, Bill Nye, Groucho Marx, Orville Redenbacher, newscaster Charles Osgood, oh, and Donald Duck, too! So go ahead and "tie one on" today, or simply clip one on!

Today in History

In 1986, Tina Turner received a star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame. Dubbed the "Queen of Rock and Roll," she won 8 Grammy Awards over a career spanning 50 years. Turner was inducted into the Rock & Roll Hall of Fame twice, as part of Ike & Tina Turner and again as a solo artist.

DID YOU KNOW?

Random Items at the Library of Congress

The Library of Congress is home to a wide variety of unique and unexpected items beyond its vast collections of books and manuscripts. These include the contents of Abraham Lincoln's pockets on the night he was assassinated, 4,000-year-old cuneiform receipts, 18 glass flutes, and even celebrity palm prints. Other strange items include human hair, a 1507 Waldseemüller World Map, and every public tweet posted between 2006 and 2018.
