Bill of Rights Day

It was on this day in 1791 that 10 of the 12 proposed amendments to the Constitution were approved and added to the United States Constitution. These key additions are known as the Bill of Rights, and in honor of the addition of these amendments, which protect our rights as Americans, we celebrate Bill of Rights Day today.

These amendments include the freedom of religion, speech, and press, the right to bear arms, the protection from illegal search and seizure, and more! Do you know which of the original amendments didn't pass?

The proposed amendments concerned the number of representatives in Congress and their compensation. Had they passed, we'd have over 6,000 congressmen! Happy Bill of Rights Day!

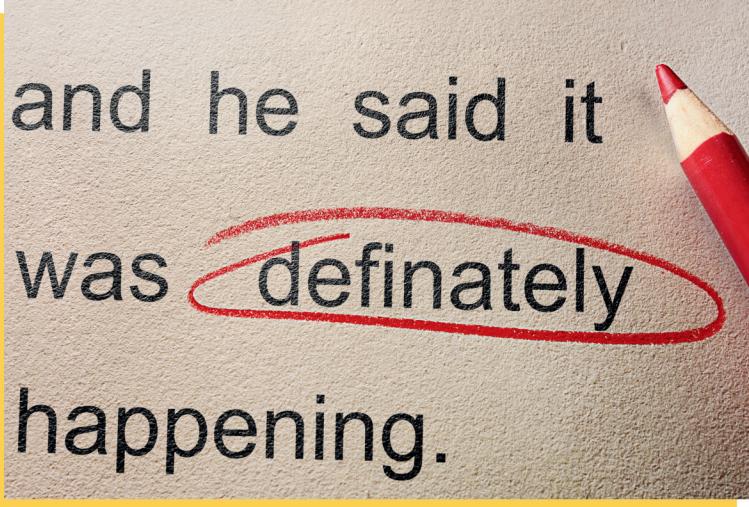

Today in History

In 1939, "Gone With the Wind" premiered in Atlanta, Georgia. The film starred Clark Gable and Vivien Leigh and won Best Picture in 1940. Starring in over 60 films, Clark Gable was known as the "King of Hollywood." He won an Academy Award for his role in "It Happened One Night".

DID YOU KNOW?

The Great Misspeller

Did you know that F. Scott Fitzgerald, the celebrated author of The Great Gatsby and a master of prose, was a notoriously bad speller? The voice of the Jazz Age consistently struggled with basic orthography, and his personal letters and manuscripts were riddled with errors. It fell to his legendary editor, Maxwell Perkins, to correct the frequent mistakes. This peculiar flaw reveals a surprising gap in the literary genius of one of America's most stylish writers.
