National Trivia Day

National Trivia Day celebrates those who accumulate and hoard tidbits of useless trivia. The holiday recognizes the collectors of unconnected, irrelevant data, facts, and quotes each year. They are the ones who usually proffer these sometimes astounding bits of history when friends and family least expect, and we love them for it.

Trivia undoubtedly has been around for centuries, but it became a “thing” in the 1960s when college students began trading questions and answers about popular culture—undoubtedly egged on by television. Two Columbia University students created intercollegiate quiz bowls and published the book Trivia in 1966. Challenge someone to a trivia contest, attend a trivia night, or host one! Amaze your friends, delight your enemies, and spew a little trivia tidbit of your own today!

DID YOU KNOW? Catachable But Not Fetchable

Mahala Mullins, a legendary moonshiner of the Appalachian Mountains in the mid-1800s, was known for her high-quality moonshine. Despite her large size (500 lbs. +) and the law's attempts to arrest her, she remained uncatchable, earning a reputation as a folk hero. Part of the Melungeon community, she symbolized independence and resilience in Appalachia. Her story lives on as a testament to the unyielding spirit of the region.
