Don't Cry Over Spilled Milk Day

Stuff happens all the time. People make mistakes, feelings get hurt, and life gets interrupted. In a world of bad luck and misfortune, Don't Cry Over Spilled Milk Day serves as a much-needed reminder that life is too short to worry or fret over things that have already happened. The popular saying is actually a contemporary iteration of the idiom, "No weeping for shed milk," which was originally published in 1659 in "Paramoigraphy" by Welsh historian and author James Howell. Spend today looking on the bright side of things and let an optimistic viewpoint carry you through. As the old saying goes, "It takes one minute to change your attitude. And, in that one minute, you can change your whole day!"
