International Day For Achievers

If you know somebody, or maybe yourself, who has achieved extraordinary feats in a chosen field, today is for you! International Day for Achievers celebrates all people of all ages, races, genders, and otherwise who have made an impact or inspired those in their community through their work in their chosen field. From environmentalists, doctors, and scientists to teachers, social workers, civil servants, and even outstanding students, today we salute you for your efforts in making a difference in the world and inspiring others to do the same.

So, find someone you know who is an achiever and acknowledge, celebrate, and pay tribute to them for all they do. Thanks to all the achievers out there!

Today in History

In 1964, the Kennedy half-dollar coin was first issued. Congress approved the half-dollar coin about one month after Kennedy's death to memorialize the president. First Lady Jacqueline Kennedy selected the half dollar for the coin's denomination.

DID YOU KNOW?

A Bitter Medicine's Sweet Success

Tonic water was originally used to prevent and treat stomach ailments and contained quinine by the Quechua people. Scottish doctor George Cleghorn discovered its effectiveness in treating malaria. British soldiers in India mixed it with gin, creating the popular "gin and tonic" beverage we know today.

SOLUTIONS

Trivia Answer: A. Leonardo de Vinci

Although Leonardo da Vinci began the Mona Lisa in 1503, he spent more than 14 years obsessively refining it with hundreds of thin glazes and never actually delivered it to the client who commissioned it.
