World Origami Day

Happy Origami Day! Origami is the art of making intricate objects out of squares of paper. Extremely popular at weddings, parties of all kinds, and even fancy dinners, Origami Day was organized to coincide with the birthday of Lillian Oppenheimer, the founder of the first origami group in the US. But, of course, Origami has quite a long history that goes much further back beyond Ms. Oppenheimer's influence.

While the most frequent origami objects people create are cranes and other birds, you can make just about anything your mind can imagine! So, think of an object, grab a piece of paper, and try to fold it in any number of ways without using scissors, a knife, glue, or tape. If you are experienced in origami, be sure to teach someone this wonderful skill.

Today in History

In 1933, “Riffin’ the Scotch” was released. It was Billy Holiday’s 2nd song and 1st hit. She won 4 Grammy Awards, was inducted into the Grammy Hall of Fame, the National Rhythm & Blues Hall of Fame, and the Rock & Roll Hall of Fame. Her final album was “Lady in Satin”.

DID YOU KNOW? For Your Information

Have you ever realized that many ordinary words are actually acronyms? For example, LASER represents “Light Amplification by Stimulated Emission of Radiation,” whereas RADAR shortens “Radio Detection and Ranging.” If you go diving, SCUBA gear stands for “Self-Contained Underwater Breathing Apparatus.” Meanwhile, that web security CAPTCHA test means “Completely Automated Public Turing test to tell Computers and Humans Apart.” Plenty of regular words we use daily serve as shorthand for far longer technical phrases.
